The British Atlantic Fleet

A breezy afternoon at the south of England, port of Weymouth. Along the lovely sands thousands of summer visitors are disposing themselves for Weymouth is a great summer resort, and has been so since the days of George III.

But anchored off the shore are grim reminders that it is not always playtime in England. Immense floating fortresses are the seven superdreadnoughts which lie out in the bay. The Canadian newspaper party are in Weymouth at the invitation of the Admiralty to look over the Atlantic Fleet, one of the most powerful sections of the British Navy.

They are taken aboard a small tug-boat, and sail around the battleships. For the press boat the sea is a bit high. The boat tosses around somewhat, and those who have ventured near the bows to get a better view feel a little salt spray occasionally on their faces. But the battleships are not affected by this little blow. They hardly move at all on the motion of the waves. However, a signal is flashed from the flagship that owing to the weather it would not be possible for the press boat to come alongside, and we have to be content with viewing the battleships from the outside. We pass very close to the Queen Elizabeth, one of the famous ships of the fleet, and now the flagship of the fleet. She made history when she sank the German battleship, the Goeben, in the Baltic.

One ship of special interest is the old battleship Aeternum, once the pride of the fleet, and now to be used as a target for the guns. She has been filled with logs to render her unsinkable. But what is more important as showing the progress of modern science is that she can be propelled and steered without a soul on board, the work being done by wireless from another ship some distance away.

Another ship is an aeroplane carrier, with a flat deck on a level with the top of the funnels, from which aeroplanes rise and can also descend and be taken by elevators to the lower decks for storage. Aeroplanes are the eyes of the fleet.

As a special favor, we are taken into the open channel for a short time, where one of the big submarines goes through the evolutions of diving, travelling under water, and rising. At one moment the big ship is going through the water at a speed of twenty knots per hour. She is then seen to submerge, until nothing but the top of the little conical known as the periscope is showing above water, and that is very hard to distinguish, even at a close distance. We lose sight of that even, till the submarine rises at a different spot for all the world like a huge whale.

As the party sail back to Weymouth, they begin to realize, if they had not before, that the British Navy, more than any other agency, contributed to the winner of the Great War. They saw the seas of the enemy for more than four years, and on the rare occasions when they did come into contact with a vessel, they saw that the British Navy was the last, as well as the first, to appear in the German High Seas Fleet until that day in November 1918, when they steamed across the North Sea to the North of the British Isles, and surrendered themselves to Admiral Beatty.

Carseland Center-shots

The last we heard from our friend from Baintree was that he was going fishing. That reminds us that he did not belong to the Wheat Pool. We are wondering if he could possibly be the front of the "U.F.A." of August 1924?

Mr. and Mrs. Lonsdale left last week for two days trip in the Rockies. We all wish them an enjoyable outing.

T. H. Kruse and family returned last week from their trip to South Dakota, and report a most enjoyable trip.

It seems like old times to see George around in town again.

We see the Delmondo U.F.A. boat is setting a pretty lively pace. It would be well for the Carseland local to follow the lead.

Last week there were registered in the tourist's camp at Shelby, several families from here and Delmondo.

C. A. Phillips is going to try out a push binder. They ought to be the real thing for handling the crop this year.

G. C. Melendy and family returned last week, and report a most enjoyable trip. G. C. says after driving over four thousand miles, through eleven states, he is perfectly satisfied to be in Little Old Carseland.

Doris Field was on Calgary last week having her tonsils removed.

Carseland had a walkaway last Wednesday in their game with Strathmore.

When we drive over some of the roads being constructed in our locality, we are like Mr. and Mrs. Beans, in the Saturday Evening Post. We don't know where to "Howl Dismally" because we have them, or "Boltroously Exult" because we haven't.

The wheat pool meeting did not materialize last Saturday night, for several different reasons; so please take note—Wheat Pool Meeting next Saturday evening in the school house. U.F.A. meeting immediately following. A full attendance is desired at both meetings. Mr. Lawren has some very interesting things to tell us about the Wheat Pool, and we will have a report of the U.F.A. picnic and dance.

The oats on stubble are making a rapid comeback since the ground is wet. We may get some oats yet.

Several around here have started cutting stubble wheat. They say it don't take much of their time keeping the twine-box full.

SEEN ALONG THE WAY
He wondered if a Ford could swim. It couldn't.

He tried to lead the train to the crossing—He didn't.

She tried to turn the car sideways—She couldn't.

He wondered if a Ford would run without gas—It wouldn't. That was.

He wondered if the traffic cop could catch him—He did.

Weather and Crop Report of the West

WINNIPEG, Man., August 19.—Clear, cool weather, with intermittent showers followed by heavy rains last night over Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Central and Southern Alberta has prevailed during the past seven days according to the weekly crop report issued today by the Agricultural Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Low temperatures caused slight damage to some of the late crops in small areas of northern Manitoba and northern Saskatchewan. The report states the new crop of rye and barley is already beginning to move, but it is expected that oats and flax will be late. A large acreage of the latter crop gives fair promise. The ripening of all crops is retarded by unfavorable weather, and cutting will be suspended a couple of days on account of rain. The livestock situation in the west is unchanged. Prices maintain well for cattle. Recent rainfalls have somewhat improved present food straits, but many areas will be short of winter supply. Rye cutting is several in the province of Manitoba the report says and should be completed this week. Barley cutting is also in progress. Wheat and late crops are filling out nicely. Light frosts on the night of the 15th may have slightly affected late crops in vicinity of Russell, Hirschner, and English. Fine warm weather is essential, however, to mature grain.

The cutting of wheat, it is expected, will be general in ten days time. Grain is filling out well in Saskatchewan, but warmer weather is needed and there are no indications of rust or other menace. Rye and barley cutting will be general this week, and wheat cutting between the twenty-fifth and the end of the month.

There is notable improvement in the province in late grain, particularly in wheat. With favorable weather grain cutting will be general in the province of Alberta about the last of the month. There is better promise for coarse grains, oats and barley. Late rains in

Coming Events

Theodore Roberts and May McAvoy will be featured at the Memorial Hall, Saturday, August 23rd, in the famous "Grumpy." "Grumpy" is nationally known to be one of the best pictures of the season, and shows the popular stars to advantage. This picture aims to provide laughter for young and old.

WINNIPEG, Man.—Approximately 21,000 harvesters will be required to handle the western grain crop this year, or slightly more than half of last year's total. This estimate was arrived at as the result of a conference among Prairie Government farmer organizations, and employment services. It is announced that 19,000 men can be secured locally and from British Columbia, and the remaining 18,000 will be brought from the eastern provinces.

have brought about marvelous recovery of crops on the Edmonton-Duncan and British Columbia Railway, but the crop yield generally, will not approach average.

Certain areas in Peace River country will produce best crops in years, with favorable weather. The report states weather conditions are ideal and may prove more beneficial than anticipated. Light rains during the past week in Southern parts of province, including Kootenay district, will be of benefit to late fruits, and apples in particular. Dry and warm weather prevails in the Okanagan, but is favorable along the main line.

Serviceberry District Association Meet

E. J. Carland, M.P. for Bow River, was the principal speaker at Saturday's meeting of Serviceberry District Association, U.F.A. and U.F.W.A., held at Nightingale in conjunction with a very creditable horticultural show. Mr. Carland spoke for two hours on the manner in which our Dominion finances itself in the bond market. He showed that sales of bonds were made to some bond buying house, usually in the States, and at a discount, for a long term of years with interest charges running in the life of the bonds for much more than the principal. These bonds then found their way back into Canada and in Canadian banks. Our banks would then send the bonds to Ottawa, where they would remain in deposit, interest being paid to the banks, and cash being issued to the banks in one and two-dollar bills on the face of the bonds. The department of finance at Ottawa has been consulted and had stated that there was no help for this situation except by destroying our international credit.

Hon. Irene Parby addressed the meeting with a fine half-hour talk on the importance of holding a vision of the possibilities in the development of the prairie farm.

J. C. Buckley, M.L.A., gave interesting figures on the work of various departments of the provincial government to show that splendid accomplishments had been developed by the Government.

A resolution passed bound the farmers present to a scale of $2.00 per day for harvest help this fall.

Another resolution passed protested against the railroads being permitted to disregard the spirit of the "Crows Nest Pass" agreement on rates and branch lines constructed since the date of the act.

Golf Notes

The last bonfire party of the season was held on the links on Monday evening last, following a mixed putting competition.

About twenty pairs of players took part in the latter, and darkness found the following competitors tied for first place: Mrs. Hill with Patrick; Miss Brown with Dunn; Miss Stockton with Haines, all scoring 31 strokes for the round of the club day. The tie will be played off immediately under conditions convenient to all.

After the game the players divided into two groups—those who had lived in eastern Canada originally, and those who had come to the west direct from other countries being broadly classed as "Westerners." The latter group sang some suitable Western songs, and the easterners responded with "The Maple Leaf" etc. Mr. Wright's absence was greatly regretted. Dr. Robinson came to the rescue, as soloist, with true McGill verve and esprit.

Owing to the length of the grass on the course recently, the captains have extended till the 27th of August, the time for the return of the five cards necessary for each player's handicap adjustment.

The Club championships, ladies' and gentlemen's will be played in September—the qualifying rounds in the first stroke in September, and in order to make the adjustment satisfactory to all, the scratch-handicap committees require at least five best scores, 9 holes each, from each player before the 26th of August.

Drop your cards in the box.

Rosebud Notes

The U. F. W. A. held their regular meeting on Saturday evening last and had a good attendance. There will be quite a number going to the district association meeting in Nightingale on Saturday next, both from the U. F. A. and U. F. W. A.

Mrs. Parker and Miss Helen Parker were in Drumheller last week.

The rains have greatly improved the crops in the district and it is expected that cutting will begin this week.

Old friends are welcoming Logan Low to the district again. Logan arrived in town a few days ago, having made the trip from California in seven days. He was accompanied by several other young men and the trip home proved very pleasant.

The U.F.A. District Association meeting which was held on Saturday, August 16th, at Nightingale, drew a splendid crowd. A very interesting and profitable day was spent and the encouraging speeches given by the Hon. Irene Parley, Mr. Garland, M.P., and Mr. Buckley, M.L.A., were greatly appreciated.

The additional attractions at Nightingale was the wonderful exhibition of fruit, vegetables, flowers, cakes and fancy work, which was held in the large tent adjoining the hall. The mammoth vegetables and wonderful strawberries and red currants, etc., were a marvel to the people who came from districts where the gardens are completely dried out. The beautiful array of cakes, bread, fancy work, etc., testified to the fact that there are some real artists among the farm women of Alberta.

The Convention broke up about 7:30 p.m. after a very full day. Among those who attended from Rosebud were: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gow and Logan Gow, Mr. Bolic, Mr. and Mrs. Dan McGowan, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Comstock, Mr. L. W. Comstock and Mrs. J. W. McCallum, also Mr. and Mrs. Barr, of Redland.

Mrs. Barlow has as her guest, her aunt, Miss Gray, of New York City. Miss Gray visited in Rosebud last summer, and will be well remembered.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Reytman and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Monroe have returned after a very pleasant holiday trip to Fine Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Vigar went to Drumheller on Saturday to bring back their new car.

Mrs. R. W. Brunner, Chas. Comstock, Geo. Gow, Logan Gow, and L. Shuecraft left Sunday morning on a fishing trip to the new lake down near Brooks. We are all looking for a fine dinner when they return, as Mr. Brunner expects to bring home several hundred pounds.

What is the Matter With England

The answer is "Nothing" the matter with England, or for that matter with Scotland, or with France or Belgium, which comprise the countries visited by the Canadian weekly newspaper men.

The Englishman has the habit of self-depreciation developed to a considerable extent. Probably that is why so many of the press dispatches appearing in Canadian newspapers during the last year or two have given the impression that Great Britain was on her last legs, and that the Continent was in the throes of subjugation.

As a matter of fact, the countries mentioned seem to be in much better shape than they were before the war, and this recognition since the war has been wonderful. A poorly dressed person is a rare sight. Motors are plentiful, the facilities for employment are great, and are being fully taken advantage of.

It is only two or three years ago that appeals were being made to people of all countries to "help starve Belgium." Today Belgium has, by her own efforts, pulled out of the hole, and is going full steam ahead.

France is also showing wonderful recuperation, though the change is not so pronounced as in the case of Belgium, for France did not suffer from German occupation to the same extent as Belgium.

The French and Belgian currency is much depreciated as compared with its pre-war relative value to the pound and the dollar, but that does not seem to exercise any adverse effect on the well-being of the people.

In Britain, on the other hand, the pound is only a little short on pre-war value, the proportion being about 4 to 5 dollars to the pound, as compared with the normal ratio of 4.86.

The cost of living is much higher than before the war, approximating to Canadian and U.S. standards, but wages have risen correspondingly. As on the American Continent, the farmers are being hit heavily by the decline in values of farm products, as compared with industries. While there is still considerable unemployment in Britain, there seems to be a little poverty, much less than in pre-war times. It is not to be wondered at that there is some unemployment in Britain. The Old Land is highly industrialized. During the war the processes of production were interrupted to with the needs in man-power, munitions, etc. of the army and navy. However, the worst of the depression seems to have passed about six months ago, and shows that there has been a steady improvement.

Both in Britain and on the continent there seems to be a great increase of interest in outdoor sports, especially of the kind where everyone participates rather than look on. During the month of June, with daylight saving, the daylight continues until eleven o'clock, and large numbers are after the day's work is over, Canada has something to learn from Britain in the art of enjoying life. The Briton does not sacrifice his play in the interests of business, and once a year, at least, he allows himself a holiday. For instance, in the month of July the big workshops in Scotland close down absolutely for a week to two weeks, and all workers, with their wives and children, or their sweethearts, betake themselves to the seaside and the mountains.

It is not hard to believe that Billy, in France, and Belgium are enjoying a rejuvenation. While the war shook the whole commercial and social fabric of these nations, and caused an immense amount of misery and suffering, yet it has put the actual producers on top, and while there have been strikes and so on during the post five years, yet a much better spirit is in evidence between employers and employees generally.

The advent of a Labour Government in Britain has not been attended with the dire results that were predicted, in fact business has improved since the Labourites took office. In the post-war period Britain has led the world in democracy and in the initiation of great social and political experiments, and it would seem as if she was going to continue to do so.

During the war it was our pride in Canada, that we belonged to the great British family of nations, and stepped into the breach together in defence of the cause of freedom and to-day we can still feel proud that we are living under the folds of the Union Jack.

Air Pageant at Kenley

Canadian Editors' Show

About 120 members of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association visited Kenley Aerodrome on Monday, July 7 by arrangement between the Air Ministry and the Empire Press Union, and saw a display of flying, illustrative of the latest aerial tactics. It was a Royal Air Force Pageant on a small scale, but in some respects giving an even more intimate view of the Junior Service at work, Kenley is the headquarters of No. 4 Group, whose particular concern is the defence of London. The R. A. F. Pageant is held at an aerodrome which is not yet a regular Service centre at Kenley, one sees the real thing. The officer commanding the group is Air Commodore C. R. Skelton, and he received the guests. The aerodrome is the home of No. 24 Squadron, and the band of the squadron played during the visit. About thirty-five aeroplanes took part, these including three "Siskins", Stalder 5, the new single-seater fighter, a type that was not represented at the R. A. F. Pageant.

After the visitors had made a tour of the aerodrome buildings an exhibition of aerobatics was given by Flying Officer Shepherd. There was a rickety and at times rough winds, but spite of it he went through the evolutions which are part of the training for aerial fighting. These included looping, by which the air-fighter tries to reverse the positions of pursuer and pursued; spinning, sometimes resorted to in order to stimulate loss of control through injury to pilot or his machine; rolling and upside-down flying; illustrating recovery of normal flying attitude from any conceivable situation.

The fighting air unit of three machines was demonstrated by three "British" fighters of No. 24 Squadron. Big formations are made up of units of three, which are the most suitable as affording mutual protection against attacks from aircraft, and the three permitting convenient concentration for attack. This formation was attacked by three "Siskins", and a typical "dog-fight" ensued, the fast and nimble fighting acrobats ever seeking to get to close quarters with the tail of their formidable opponents, the fall being the "kill" spot.

Crazy Flying

A dummy submarine made up from scrap material lay in the centre of the field, and this was bombed by five "Siskin" single-seater fighters of No. 25 Squadron (Hawkins), which also showed the low-level attack as delivered against troops and shipping, the machines attacking from different directions in order to embarrass the defence. "Crazy flying" and "dog-fights" are the amusement it affords, is valuable for demonstrating unconventional manoeuvres, and for instilling the pilot's mastery and confidence, an item omitted from this year's Pageant, was shown by flying Officer Leslie Hamilton on an "Avro".

Social—Personal

Miss M. M. Watson, of the C.P.E.D. Headquarters, left for Edmonton yesterday on her two-week holiday. Her racing golf friends, not to mention several others who do not play golf, will have to carry on as best they can for the next fortnight.

Miss W. J. Brown, of the Bank staff, returned from a two-week's vacation spent at Blairmore.

Miss Edith Gray spent a short holiday at Banff and vicinity last week.

Mr. Harry Baker paid a flying visit to Strathmore on Friday, and included three half-cakes, plus the big dance before leaving. Harry thinks city life slow as compared with this old Strathmore of ours.

Mr. Watson Crawford returned to Medicine Hat, after two weeks holiday spent here and at the Coast.

Mr. H. Gibson, of Paisley, Scotland, brother of Mrs. C. S. B. Lait, has arrived here and will try his hand at farming under Mr. H. Hilton, of Nislingale.

Deputy Mayor R. Fox is spending a few days at Banff.

Mr. and Mrs. French, of Bassano, were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Joe French.

Mr. J. L. Van Tienem, Manager of the local Bank, has left for Winnipeg, where he will spend part of his well-earned vacation.

Mr. Ray Prince has returned after spending a pleasant holiday at the Coast. Ray has the distinction of not having one former Strathmore acquaintance whilst away, and does not consider his holiday complete.

Lovers of flowers would be well repaid by including a walk along Sixth Street just now, and viewing the exquisite display of flowers surrounding the home of Mrs. De Witt. It is without doubt the most magnificent showing seen in Strathmore, apart from the C.P.E.D. Headquarters, and this in spite of the dry summer. We counted no less than thirty-five varieties growing. Truly this garden is an inspiration to owners of wood-lathed lots to exert themselves to make Strathmore still more beautiful. One is reminded of a verse by Whittier which appears seasonable: "Give fools their gold, and knaves their power."

Let nations rise, and nations fall; Who plants a tree, or trails a flower, Or sows a field, is best of all.

Mr. S. H. Crowthers, the newly appointed vice-principal of Strathmore school, has arrived in town, and from our impressions will make a welcome addition to our local "Four Hundred."

Miss Grace Gillespie is visiting her sister, Mrs. S. Moore, for the week.

A most enjoyable time was spent last Thursday, when the Ladies Aid of the Union Church arranged a supper in the park. The ladies evidently anticipated the large number that were present, for there was an abundance of choice viands, to which everybody present did justice. The meal was eaten to the strains of the Town Band, who blew and beat right lustily. Games were played after supper, and the remainder of the eatables were disposed of by auction, where Mr. Fred Dewar again showed his ability as auctioneer.

Miss M. E. Gibson was a visitor to Calgary over the week end. Mrs. Coyle and Peter are spending a few days with Mrs. H. Wood.

Laundry dainty things twice as often, this way

It's not necessary to keep your prettiest things folded and laid away. Wear them—often. Launder them, just as often as necessary. But do it this way.

Use Palmolive PRINCESS SOAP FLAKES—and see fragile crepes, silks, laces, come from laundering absolutely unharmed. Colors brightened and freshened, if anything.

The great foam of suds contains nothing to hurt the delicate fabric, the most delicate coloring. It dissolves the dirt, however, most thoroughly—and washes it away.

These snowy, crinkly flakes contain nothing but pure soap. So they go farther, cleanse more efficiently. That makes it economical to use them in the washing machine, for all laundering, and for every general household purpose.

If only to try, get some today of your dealer. He has them—in handy one-pound packages.

Producing a Newspaper

Canadian Journalists in Fleet Street

One hundred and seventy Canadian newspaper proprietors and editors availed themselves of an invitation by the proprietors of The Daily Telegraph to visit their offices on Monday, July 20, and to witness the various stages of the production and printing of this newspaper. The guests were received in the Pillar Hall by Viscount and Viscountess Barnham, who were accompanied by Lieut. Colonel and Mrs. E. F. Lawson.

Among those invited to meet the visitors were: The Lord Mayor of London and the Lady Mayores, Mr. Sheriff Drom, Colonel and Mrs. Sherwood, Major A. J. Walter, Major and Mrs. Murray Smith, Major and Mrs. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Foster, Sir William and Lady Schomberg, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lawson, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Faudel-Phillips, Sir Philip and Lady Henriques, the Hon. Mrs. Tutton and Mr. Tutton, Major and Mrs. Cole, Colonel and Mrs. Court a Replington, Mr. and Mrs. Townsend.

Breaking up into small parties, the visitors made a tour of the buildings, particular interest being taken in the time-saving mechanical devices which are so important in the rapid production of a modern "daily" and the express dissemination of the latest news for the morning reader. In the composing room the company saw the largest single newspaper battery of linotypes in the world, there being forty-six machines, capable of composing single or double columns in six different sets of types. The setting-up of pages of type was witnessed, the pages being followed to the foundry, where cylindrical metal plates were taken from papier-mâché moulds of the rotary presses. In a few minutes a Hoe high-speed machine of the latest design was pouring out copies of The Daily Telegraph, folded to half-page size at the rate of 20,000 per hr. In the machine room, which is with out its match in London, six Hoe printing presses, each capable of printing 16, 18, 20, and 24 pages, were on view.

Slats' Diary

Friday—I guess ma dussent have a very good opinion of me as a yd. cleaner at least this morning while I was a winking like a poor galley slave cleaning up the yd. I had Mrs. Gillem remark to ma at I was winking quite as hard and steadily as usual. And ma replied and said. No he seldom does.

Sat.—well up at Jake's house they had quite a time tonight and I like to bed drifting Jake's sister which has got a young baby cum to visit them for a while and while the rest of the family was out looking at the flower garden they informed Jake to stay in the house and watch the kid till it fell asleep. So pretty soon they heard some yelling and when they went in they saw Jake what the matter was and they said. Well you told me to watch him till he fell asleep and I told you I was going to fall asleep so I went and pushed him.

Sunday—Pa and I didn't need to go to Sunday school today and we would go out and have a game golf together so I had credit for him. Well I heard no saying I off to the but he said to me to go on my own and we went. I said him if ma lost her temper and he said. No if any thing she seemed to have a little bit extra. I guess pa must have some thing on her. He is so independent.

Monday—Bilaters was up here today and said that he put in his birthday sitting at Sunday school yesterday and he said something to me that he thought of when you put in your birthday of Friday. He said I that of the old proverb which says. A fool and your money is soon separated.

Tuesday—Well ma is still picking on me. They are I think sure she should ought to no how to play a hard pretty good when she gets to be even because she has been picking on me for a time or so, yes.

Wednesday—went down along the creek today and had some bad luck and when I got home got a lambing for falling in the creek with my pants on, but you ain't all ways got to take your pants off when you fall in the creek.

Thursday—At the three ton I was dancing with a beautiful girl and all of a sudden she sed o garden me. I sed what for. She sed. Why for getting I of my ft. you said. That was are has done with each another. I guess she was only just kidding.

PUBLIC HEALTH NOTICE

We wish again to advise you in regard to the presence of small pox in this community. While the form of the disease is not at the present of the worst type, we nevertheless have some cases of the disease, and the diagnosis cannot be disputed. The evidence is that the disease was brought here from Idaho early in July. It appears to have been so mild in the family effected that no physician was at any time called in. This family came from the Province by automobile and the first case developed by the way. After arriving in Strathmore they had the malady, and did not report it. We believe the neglect to report the disease was through ignorance, and was not intentional. On account of the mild type of the disease and possible contacts before its discovery, it is still uncertain as to the final outcome. For this reason we want to again advise as to the importance of vaccination. In February of the present year, in the city of Windsor, Ont., a most virulent type of smallpox broke out, all those who took the disease, there were a few who had been vaccinated from twelve to sixty-five years before. Of these latter, however, no one died. Of those who had never been successfully vaccinated, the death rate was seventy-one per cent. As soon as the Public Health Department realized the situation, a campaign of vaccination was immediately instituted. In a few days over nine-tenths of the seventy thousand people living in the areas threatened were vaccinated. The disease was arrested with abruptness and has remained up to the present month in a state of complete arrest. This is very recent history, and the lesson to be learned from it is very clear. There is much more to this story of the Windsor outbreak which any medical practitioner can tell you. We have arranged for free vaccination for people in the Municipality of Bow Valley, Kootenai, and Strathmore. We believe the situation in regard to the present cases is well in hand, but all the cooperation which the public can give is necessary.

(Sgd.) A. W. GILVIN,
Medical Officer of Health
Strathmore, August 18th, 1924

Smilin' Charlie Says

Bill Brand came home last week and will help his father with the harvest. He has been working in Vancouver, and says it was a great experience.

It's certainly good to see all the people coming back to the district; and there's going to be plenty to do for all when it comes to harvesting this fine crop of ours.
